Table with data - top states based on sales (overall) and maybe sales each year?

Bar chart (stacked) with the average sales for each category, and the stacked element will be the sub category item. This will also have a slider for the year to toggle to see the most popular item.

There will be text here explaining what this is for and what each graph is doing, how to interact with the graphs/figures/plots and the main findings.....

Pie chart you can hover over to see the percentage, and the segments show the different types of customers

Line plot to show the sales for each year - aim to have a legend or slider (Depends on code) to toggle by year / show multiple years at a time, to see the trends for each year of sales
